

The Country Mouse and the City Mouse

The city mouse rode the bus to visit his friend, the country mouse.

The mice went to the country mouse's house.

The city mouse was shocked. "My goodness. How can you live here? The house is so small and old" he said.

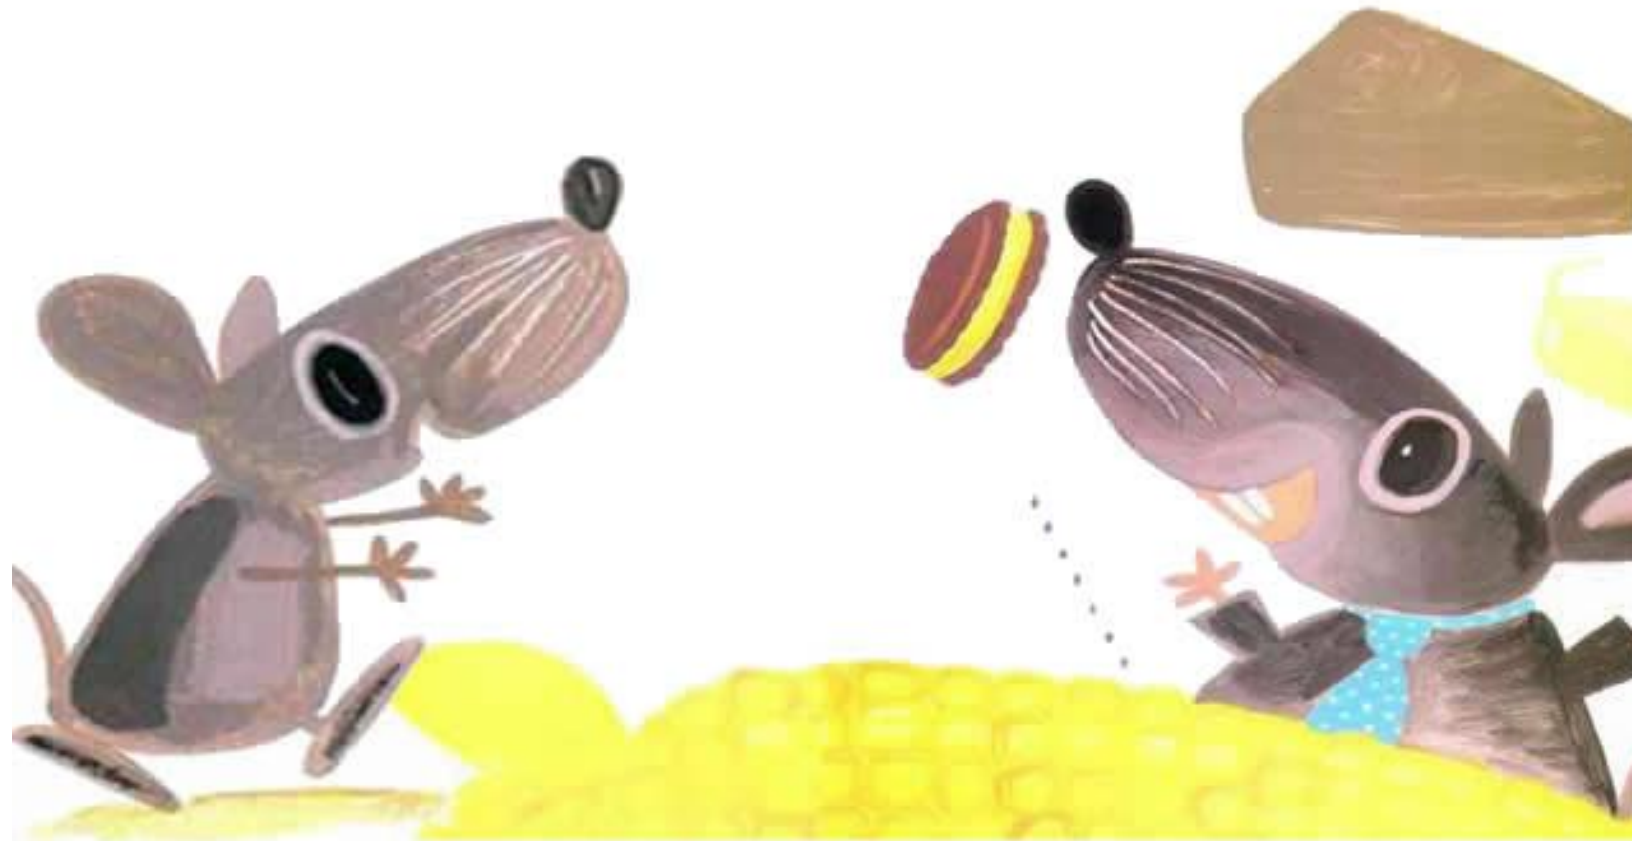

The country mouse replied "Maybe, but I'm happy here."

The country mouse served the city mouse dry bread and corn. The city mouse wanted cake and cookies

The country mouse had never had cake or cookies. The two mice decided to go to the city to eat.

The two mice went to the bus stop... rode the bus and...

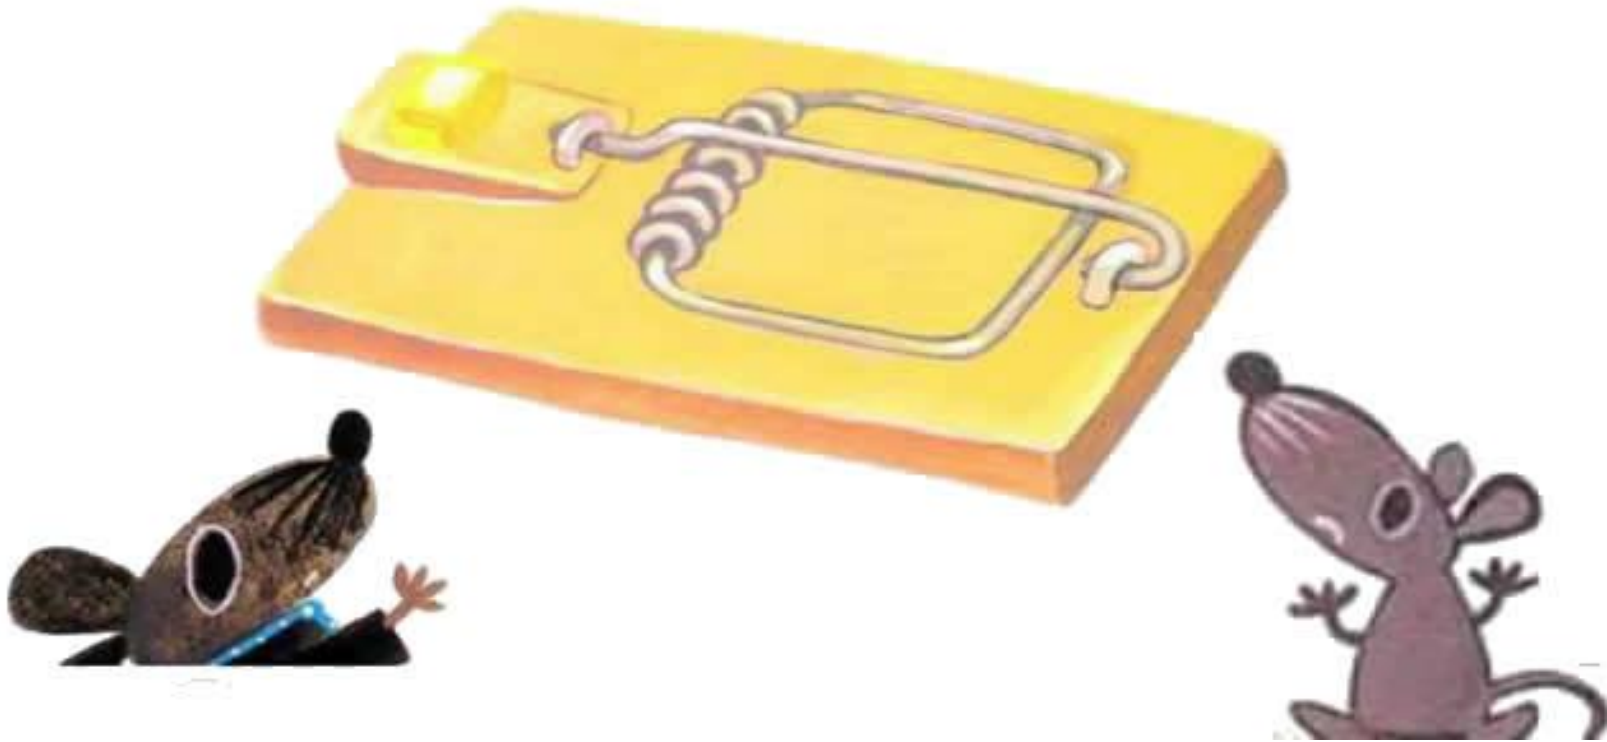

...went to the city. The country mouse thought the city was beautiful. For now.

In the road was a big truck that could run over little mice. The country mouse was scared.

The two mice went to the city mouse's house.

In the kitchen was a mouse trap to catch little mice. The country mouse was very scared.

In the dining room was cake and cookies and...

...a big dog that liked to catch little mice! The country mouse was very, very scared.

Luckily, the man of the house called the dog for a bath. The dog left...

...but in came a cat. The country mouse was very, very, very scared

The mice ran to the mouse hole.

Inside the mouse hole the mice were safe but both mice were very, very, very scared.
The country mouse did not like the city. It was too dangerous

The country mouse jumped on the bus and went back to the country. The city was too dangerous for him.

Enjoy what you have

Moral: Enjoy what you have.